About the Author:

Dana Arama is a best-selling thriller author. Her four books describe the complicated situation in the Middle East. Based on thorough research into top-secret organizations, Dana is considered a confidante to many Special Agents and Operations officers. Arama gives voice to female heroines who present the reader with realistic and relatable dilemmas that are understandable even to people outside the espionage world. Dana lives in the Middle East, where one event follows another, so it is easy for her to build a plot like a movie. This feature gives the story a realistic thrill and a unique edge.

THE SECRETS OF HOUSE NO. 1

DANA S. ARAMA

In One Line:

An Israeli real estate developer inherits a house in Stuttgart and falls in love with the mysterious heiress Eva. Meanwhile, dark secrets from World War II emerge, revealing surprising connections between their families.

Abstract:

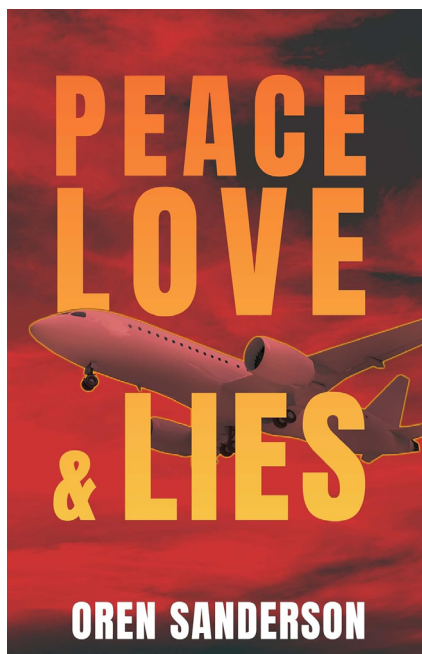

When Ofer Lavi inherits his mother's childhood home in the heart of Stuttgart, he sees it as a promising real estate opportunity. During negotiations to acquire the neighboring houses, he meets the mysterious Eva, the heiress of one of the properties. As their romance deepens, dark secrets about the French neighborhood's World War II past come to light—secrets that will test both Ofer's ambitions and his love for Eva.

Literary Lecture Review:

"The Secrets of House No. 1" is a multilayered novel that masterfully weaves together multiple narrative threads. It is centered around Ofer Lavi, a real estate developer who inherits his mother's childhood home in Stuttgart. What begins as a routine development project evolves into a fascinating journey of self-discovery, love, and dark historical secrets.

This ambitious novel manages to be simultaneously thrilling, moving, and meaningful. It offers deep insights into family, identity, and history while maintaining a compelling narrative that's hard to put down. The novel speaks to diverse readers and leaves them with much to contemplate long after finishing the last page.

About the Author:

Oren Sanderson is the pen name of a retired senior Israeli government official. Born in Tel Aviv, he served in the Israel Defense Forces and later held senior diplomatic positions, including Ambassador of Israel to Nigeria and Benin. He also advised Prime Ministers Yitzhak Shamir and Yitzhak Rabin on foreign policy. His bestselling political thrillers draw on his decades of experience in diplomacy and international affairs.

PEACE, LOVE AND LIES

OREN SANDERSON

In One Line:

What would you do if you were a CNN reporter and had to cover the story of a hijacked plane, which carried a member of your family? Would you be able to hide your emotions, knowing that their life is in danger?

Abstract:

Peace, Love and Lies is a story of big and small events interwoven and played out between journalists, military commanders, diplomats, and government officials.

It is a story of intrigue and integrity, of cynical exploitation and of small favors of love and compassion.

Definitely a must-read for those who are interested in experiencing a whole lot of emotions, events, and truths in a single title!

Literary Lecture Review:

“Peace, Love and Lies” is a gripping political thriller that masterfully blends international diplomacy, media ethics, and deeply personal conflict. Set against the backdrop of the fragile peace process in the early 1990s, the novel follows CNN journalist Shira Tailor as she navigates the impossible balance between professional responsibility and family loyalty after a hijacked plane places her stepfather among the hostages. The manuscript excels in portraying the human cost of political decisions while maintaining relentless suspense. Through its layered characters, realistic political setting, and emotional depth, the novel explores themes of truth, sacrifice, power, and compassion, delivering a compelling story that resonates long after the final page.

ALMOST PERFECT

ORLY KRAUSS-WINER

Abstract:

What would you do if your best friend, who is also a colleague, was suspected of murder?

The world of Nili Abadi, a partner in a successful law firm, is turned upside down when the body of another partner is found in a burned-out car that belongs to her best friend. The fact that her friend is also a colleague and an ex-lover of the deceased leads the police to arrest her as the main suspect in the murder.

About The Author:

Born in Israel in 1959, Orly developed a passion for reading at age four. After working as a flight attendant for seven years, she wrote a successful romantic thriller based on her experiences. She has since published twelve bestselling books in Israel, drawing from personal and family stories. She lives in Tel Aviv with her daughter and partner.

Top Reviews:

LOVE TRAP

AMNON JACKONT

Abstract:

Love Trap by Amnon Jackont follows Dr. Daphne Bernstein, who seeks a fresh start in Jerusalem with her daughter Tali after imprisonment destroyed her medical career. In an ancient building, she encounters mysterious figures—an isolated man and an ambiguous colleague—each harboring life-changing secrets. What begins as chance meetings evolves into a complex web of deception and unexpected affection. Jackont masterfully explores themes of redemption, resilience, and the blurred lines between truth and illusion.

About The Author:

Born in Israel (1948), Amnon Jackont grew up in Ramat Gan to Belgian immigrant parents. His IDF service included classified operations, during which he was wounded twice - first in a mine incident and later while imprisoned in a hostile country. After two decades in business, he earned his PhD and developed a unique prose-writing teaching method. He's authored eight bestselling novels and edited 200 books.

Top Reviews:

★★★★★ Highly recommended!

Love Trap is the second book from Author Amnon Jackont that I've enjoyed reading. Already being a fan of Jackont's I knew this would be another fantastic read, and man was I RIGHT!

THE LAZY EYE MURDER

MARTIN SHERWOOD

In One Line:

Stories about suicide turning into murder, letters in bourbon bottles, and old military secrets resurfacing have been told before.

Abstract:

“The Lazy Eye Murder” is a captivating military murder mystery that connects a soldier’s suicide in Iraq with a shocking homicide in Kentucky. The story uniquely incorporates medical investigations through eye examinations, revealing a complex web of interconnected lives. Delving into the human condition, the novel explores the ripple effects of trauma while blending military intensity with civilian suspense. With its intriguing narrative and poignant themes, this book offers a fresh perspective on the mystery genre, making it a compelling read for fans of thoughtful storytelling.

About the Author:

Eitan Carmi has a background as a tour guide in Thailand, a lecturer at Tel Aviv Open University, and a copywriter. His colleagues commend his persuasive skills, often saying he could sell ice to Eskimos. Inspired by a real-life event, Eitan set his sights on his next big challenge – writing a true-crime thriller. For a year, he meticulously crafted a gripping thriller that tackles one of the most challenging dilemmas a human being can face. “Recipient 23” is his debut novel. “The Thai Gold Heist” is his sequel suspense novel.

THE VANISHED GOLD LINE HEIST

EITAN CARMİ

In One Line:

How can 5.5 tons of gold be robbed from a Buddhist temple in the heart of Bangkok?

Abstract:

In Bangkok, American gold miners Mike Fordo and Spencer Donnelly plot to steal a $250 million golden Buddha statue from a temple. They team up with Joe Richmond, an East Asian studies lecturer, and Pooniya, secretary of the Supreme Monks’ Council. Together, they craft an intricate heist plan while navigating cultural complexities, potential betrayals, and the vibrant backdrop of contemporary Thailand.

Literary Lecture Review:

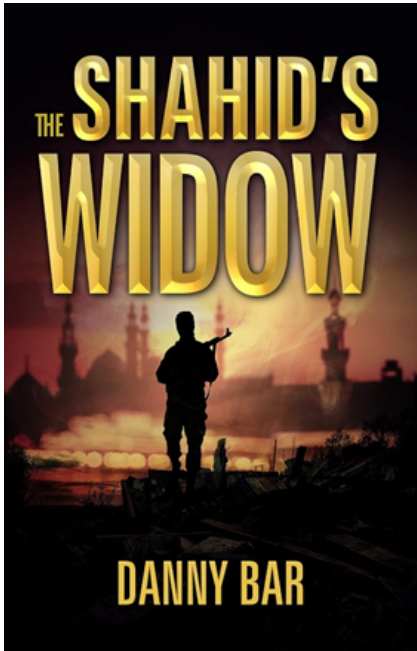

“The Vanished Gold Line Heist” is a compelling thriller that masterfully weaves historical elements with a contemporary heist plot. The story’s unique premise - stealing from within a golden Buddha statue rather than taking the entire artifact - demonstrates clever plotting. At the same time, the dual narrative structure enriches the story by connecting Thailand’s ancient history with modern-day Bangkok.

The character dynamics between the four conspirators create natural tension, particularly Mike and Joe’s prison connection, which adds complexity to their relationship. The cultural and religious elements elevate this beyond a typical heist story, while vivid descriptions of Thailand provide an immersive backdrop.

With its blend of history, suspense, and cultural depth, this manuscript shows strong commercial potential in the international thriller market. You know the Ocean’s series - 11, 12, and 13? Well, this could be Ocean’s 14... There’s an excellent and crazy idea here.”

THE SHAHID'S WIDOW

DANNY BAR

Abstract:

At the story's heart is a young Palestinian widow who defies conservative Arab society in her quest for freedom. The narrative unfolds against the backdrop of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, swiftly moving between Jerusalem's vibrant streets, Gaza's threatening alleys, and Tel Aviv's bustling thoroughfares. The story reveals a hidden world where concepts of loyalty, betrayal, and morality constantly shift and collide.

About The Author:

Danny Bar, born in 1955 in Israel, served in the special brigade of the "Golani" unit at age 18. He later joined the Israeli Secret Service (Shabak)'s Special Operations Unit. After his service, Bar became General Manager of Ben Shemen Youth Village, a prestigious educational institute founded in 1927 whose alumni include former Israeli president Shimon Peres.

Top Reviews:

★★★★★ Brilliant book.

this is actually a daily reality in Israel! Danny Bar- The author skillfully and artistically wrote a broad, profound, and reliable story about everything that happens in the souls of the Characters.

★★★★★ Tense!

ROAD TO ABANA

LATA GWALANI

Abstract:

After losing her home during the 1947 Partition of India, a young widow is drawn into an international arms-smuggling network by the promise of returning to her ancestral home. As betrayal, love, and survival collide across South Asia and the Middle East, she must reclaim both her identity and her future.

One Liner

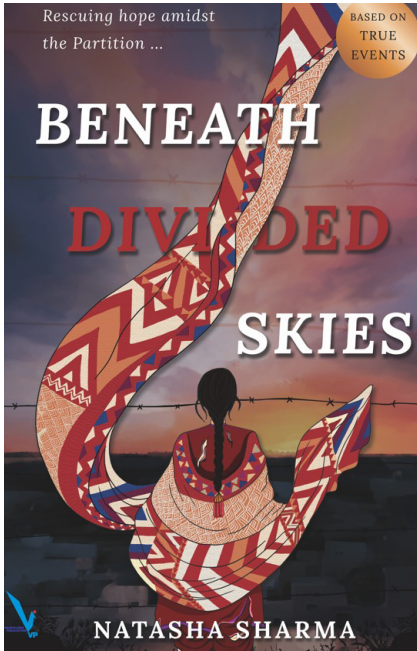

A widowed refugee risks everything across borders and battle lines, only to discover that the man she trusted has turned her longing for home into a weapon.

About The Author:

Lata Gwalani is an award-winning author, former journalist, and leadership trainer. Drawing on her background in journalism, psychology, and emotional intelligence, she creates emotionally rich stories with memorable characters. Road to Abana is inspired by her mother-in-law's experiences during the Partition of India in 1947.

Literary Lecture Review ★★★★★

"Road to Abana" is a powerful historical thriller that intertwines the emotional legacy of the Partition of India with the tension of an international espionage narrative. Through Paari's remarkable journey, the novel explores exile, identity, betrayal, and resilience while presenting a deeply human perspective on displacement and conflict. Rich in historical detail and emotional depth, it offers a compelling portrait of a woman who transforms from a victim of history into the author of her own destiny.

BENEATH DIVIDED SKIES

NATASHA SHARMA

Abstract:

As an undercover operative in post-Partition India, Satya risks her life rescuing abducted women from across the border. But as each mission blurs the line between salvation and suffering, she must confront painful questions about identity, belonging, and the true meaning of freedom.

One Liner

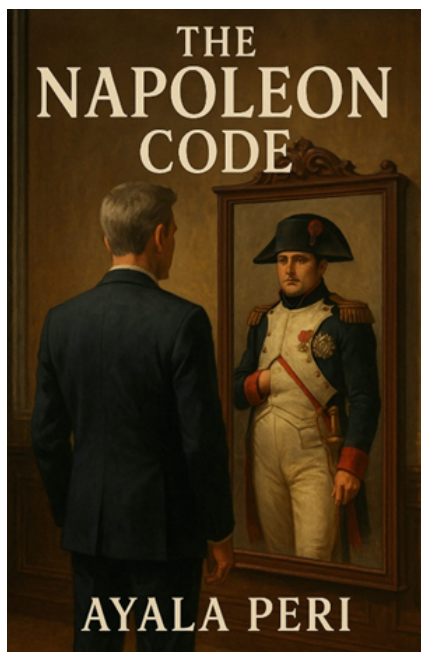

An undercover operative rescues abducted women after Partition, only to discover that returning home can be its own form of heartbreak.

About The Author:

Natasha Sharma is an award-winning author, essayist, and co-founder of the Book It Up literary platform. Her work has appeared in numerous international anthologies, and her debut novel, Beneath Divided Skies, received multiple literary honors, including Best Historical Fiction at the Authorpod Literary Awards. She also writes the Satyadarshi crime-mystery series.

Literary Lecture Review ★★★★★

“Beneath Divided Skies” is a deeply moving historical thriller that explores one of the least-known chapters of the Partition of India through a gripping blend of espionage, history, and human drama. Inspired by real recovery operations, the novel thoughtfully examines displacement, identity, and the moral complexities of rescue while placing women’s voices at the heart of history. Richly researched and emotionally resonant, it delivers a powerful story of courage, sacrifice, and healing that lingers long after the final page.

THE NAPOLEONE CODE

AYALA PERI

In One Line:

A Napoleon signet ring sweeps a lonely religious boy and a corrupt tycoon into a dangerous journey between power, identity, and compassion.

Abstract:

A Napoleon signet ring links Israeli tycoon Tomer Aharonovich, battling legal and financial collapse, with runaway youth Efi Levi. Adopting Efi as part of an image campaign, Tomer navigates power, control, and redemption. Shifting between modern Jerusalem and 19th-century Paris, the story asks: are we free to choose our destiny, or bound by tradition and desire?

About the Author:

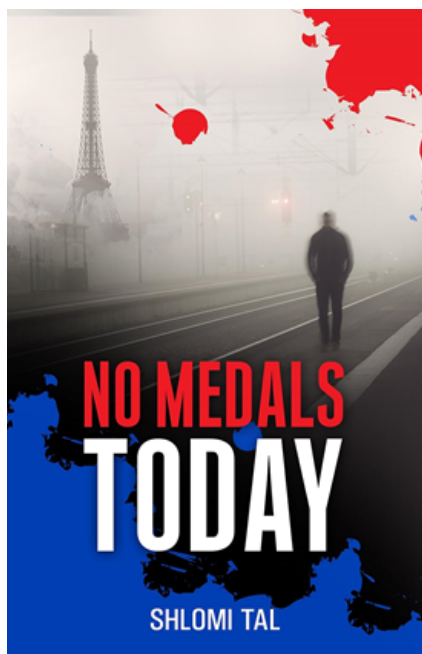

Ayala Peri is an acclaimed Haredi (Orthodox) author, born in 1984 and a resident of Israel. Peri brings a unique literary voice—blending gripping suspenseful plots with deep sensitivity, psychological insight, and honest, inspiring writing. Her work draws from personal experiences with anxiety, paranoid schizophrenia, and self-image, offering readers of all ages a space of strength, healing, and hope.

Literary Lecture Review:

“The Napoleon Code” is not just a thriller or family drama – it is a moral novel in disguise. It asks difficult questions about values, about justice, about the dynamics between influence and compassion, and it does so without preaching. The characters themselves are confused, falling and rising – and in doing so they reflect real reality much more than the expected Hollywood story.

About The Author:

Giora Eldan is a writer, jurist, and former lawyer and judge whose career has spanned law, aviation, sailing, farming, and extensive travel. Influenced by the philosophies of Kant and Isaiah Berlin, he explores the complexities of human nature, freedom, and relationships with insight and emotional depth. Blending the precision of a legal mind with the curiosity of an explorer, Eldan crafts thought-provoking stories that move seamlessly between the intimate and the universal.

Literary Lecture Review ★★★★★

“Private Love” is a beautifully written and intellectually engaging novel that explores the complexities of love, identity, and emotional connection. Through philosophical reflection and intimate storytelling, Eldan challenges conventional ideas about relationships, revealing how memory, desire, and personal growth shape the way we experience love. Insightful, emotionally honest, and deeply thought-provoking, the novel offers a fresh perspective on one of humanity’s most universal experiences.

THE GOLDFISH CHRONICLE

GIORA ELKAN

Abstract:

The Goldfish Chronicle is a darkly whimsical, bittersweet collection of short stories and monologues that peers into the fragility of everyday existence through surreal lenses, talking fish, disappearing realities, and humans who are forever circling their own emotional aquariums. Blending sharp humor with existential reflection, the book captures people on the edge of themselves – those who wait for a change that never arrives, chase truths that bend like mirrors, or crumble quietly under the weight of routine.

One Liner

From a goldfish trapped in a glass bowl to people afraid of mirrors and stuck on life's carousel. This book rips open the lie we call normal, where escape is possible only if you dare to look.

Literary Lecture Review ★★★★★

This book is definitely different. One can read it as non-sensical book and others may relate to it on a deeper scale. The book can be sold next to a book like Tuesdays with Morrie or the Alchemist but also next to a book like Winnie the pooh with questions on life or the hitch hikers guide to the galaxy where there is humor involved.

100 WAYS TO LOSE YOURSELF IN INDIA

NEVO ROZI

Abstract:

A story about impulsive decisions, misplaced hopes, lucky breaks, unlucky breaks, and the unexpected ways the world answers those who dare to leap. 100 Ways to Lose Yourself in India is a light-hearted, honest, and sharply observed story of love, escape, and the unpredictable magic of getting lost.

The book sold over 15,000 copies in Hebrew.

About The Author:

Nevo Rozi lives in Tel Aviv. At the age of twenty-four, he published his debut book, 100 Ways to Lose Yourself in India. Written during his travels across the Indian subcontinent, the book is an original work of prose that captures the restless spirit, cultural wonder, and emotional turbulence familiar to many young Israeli travelers. The project was funded through a successful crowdfunding campaign, and upon its release in May 2017, the book became an immediate bestseller, selling roughly 15,000 copies in its first year.

★★★★★ Pleasant Book

A light and pleasant book about a guy who just wanted to find the love of his life :)

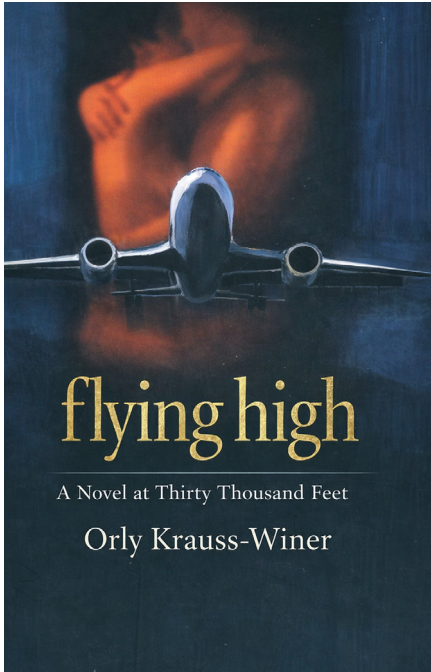

It doesn't contain heavy content, but it does include some coarse language.

I found the book by chance, and as soon as I read the summary, I knew I would like it.

Orly, born in Israel in 1959, discovered a love for reading at age four. After working seven years as a flight attendant, she wrote a bestselling romantic thriller inspired by crew life. Since then, she has published twelve bestselling novels. Orly lives in Tel Aviv with her daughter and partner.

FLYING HIGH

ORLY KRAUSS-WINER

In One Line:

“Flying High” by Orly Krauss-Winer follows three young flight attendants who enter the glamorous world of aviation, only to find themselves entangled in a web of drug smuggling, romantic intrigue, and danger.

Abstract:

Michal Barnea’s dream of becoming a flight attendant crumbles when she’s expelled from training near graduation. Though a kind captain helps reinstate her, this marks the beginning of her troubles. Her aspirations of experiencing Paris restaurants, Manhattan jazz clubs, and London shopping transform into a dangerous adventure involving international pursuits, mysterious packages, and enigmatic pilots.

Literary Lecture Review:

High” offers an intriguing glimpse into the aviation world with its blend of romance and thriller elements, the plot relies too heavily on predictable tropes and coincidental connections between characters. The story’s strength lies in the author’s authentic portrayal of airline culture, drawn from her experience as a flight attendant, but the multiple storylines and convenient plot resolutions diminish its overall impact.

Isaiah “Shaike” Artsy, born in Poland and raised in Israel before settling in the US, combines his career as a computer scientist and software architect with his passion for creative writing. After publishing “Haim’s Tales” in Hebrew, he wrote “Like a Kite on a Wire,” blending real events with fiction. He’s currently working on his next novel and short stories.

LIKE A KITE ON A WIRE

DR. ISAI'AH "SHAIKE" ARTSY

In One Line:

“Like a Kite on a Wire” follows the transformative friendship between two young men in 1960s Jerusalem through school and military service until death in war reshapes their lives, including a romance between the deceased’s sister and friend.

Abstract:

“Like a Kite on a Wire” follows Haim, a sensitive young man in 1960s Jerusalem, through his high school years and military service in Sinai. The story centers on his deep friendship with Ayal and the love that develops between Ayal and Haim’s sister, Ruhama. After Haim falls in the War of Attrition, the narrative weaves between past and present through Ayal’s memories, intertwining historical events and offering hope for the future.

Literary Lecture Review:

This novel appears compelling in its artful blend of personal and historical elements. It weaves together deep friendship, love, loss, and coming-of-age against the vivid backdrop of 1960s Israel and the War of Attrition. The narrative structure, moving between past and present through memories, seems particularly effective in exploring how tragic loss shapes the survivors’ lives.

DATE #564

AVISHAI ASHKENAZI

In One Line:

A romantic lawyer pursues a woman attending therapy-prescribed dates, told through an innovative multimedia novel.

Abstract:

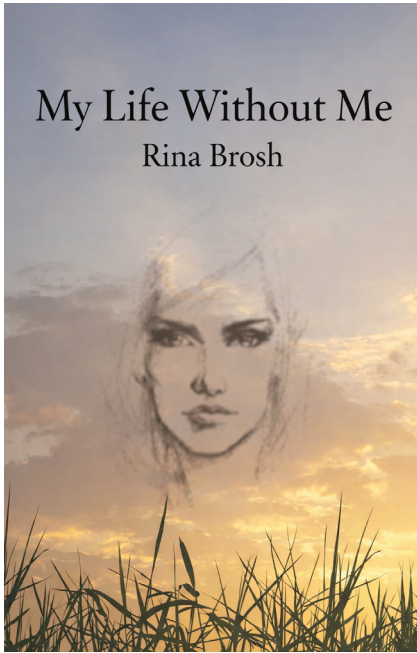

Eran, a 35-year-old lawyer and romantic, meets Dana, who's attending dates as therapy to heal from a breakup. While he sees their connection as destiny, she views it as part of her recovery. Guided by his dating coach Dinero, Eran pursues Dana in this multimedia novel that explores modern romance through an innovative combination of traditional storytelling and interactive app elements.

Literary Lecture Review:

This urban romance novel offers a fresh take on modern dating with well-crafted protagonists, Eran and Dana. The interactive app integration is innovative, though it must enhance rather than distract from the narrative. The manuscript needs stronger conflict development and a deeper exploration of Dana's character arc. Dinero's role as a supporting character could be expanded. The blend of humor and drama works well, and the unique multimedia format adds commercial appeal, particularly for urban millennials. Overall, it is a promising manuscript that needs structural refinement but shows strong market potential.

LIFE WITHOUT ME

RINA BROSH

In One Line:

A woman's shattered life becomes a courageous journey of self-discovery, leading her to newfound strength and freedom.

Abstract:

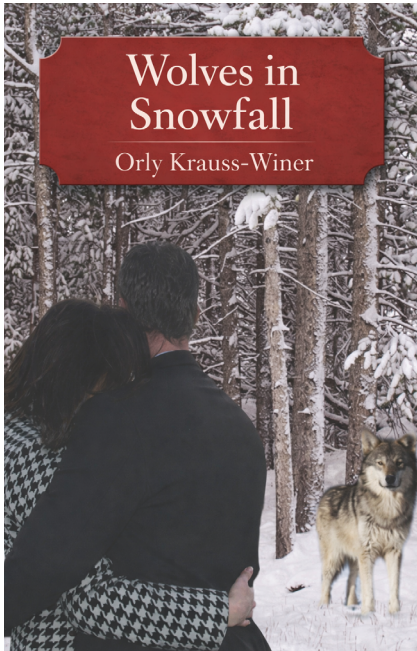

Hila's seemingly perfect life shatters unexpectedly. From her new perspective, she confronts those who hurt her and her own mistakes, uncovering deeply buried truths. With great courage, she breaks down the walls she built around herself, rediscovering her body and desires. She realizes that with open eyes and a free soul, anything is possible. In the end, she emerges on a new path stronger, liberated, fearless, and with no regrets.

Literary Lecture Review:

"Life Without Me" offers a compelling exploration of life's compromises through an innovative supernatural lens. When Hila, a 44-year-old law office manager and devoted mother, unexpectedly dies, she gains the unique perspective of observing her family's life from beyond. The author masterfully examines questions of identity, sacrifice, and authentic living through this unconventional narrative device. The novel's strength lies in its intimate portrayal of family dynamics and personal growth, as Hila watches her loved ones adapt to her absence while confronting her compromised choices. What begins as a story of loss transforms into a powerful meditation on self-discovery and the courage to live fully.

WOLVES IN SNOWFALL

ORLY KRAUSS-WINER

In One Line:

Wolves in Snowfall is a fascinating, moving, and surprising story about two great, turbulent, and desperate lovers who try to survive in the shadow of war.

Abstract:

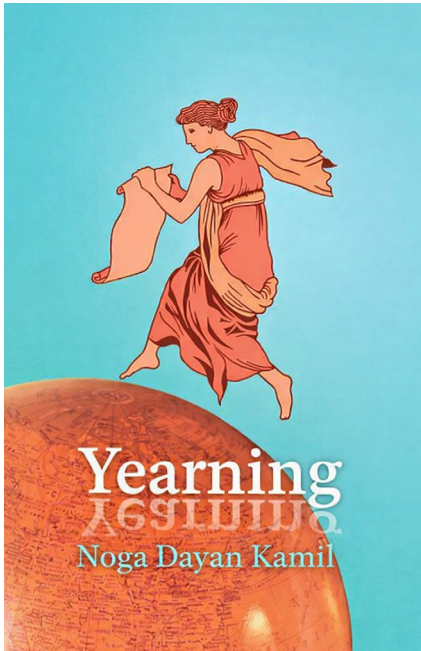

Dana Barry, arrested for workplace theft, faces another shock when she's accused of being the granddaughter of a rabbi who allegedly abandoned his community during the Holocaust. Through the diaries of Aggi Farkas, a former partisan fighter, Dana uncovers the truth about her grandfather and becomes entangled in solving a decades-old mystery about Aggi's lost lover. The investigation leads Dana to find her own path to love and redemption.

Literary Lecture Review:

"Wolves in the Snow" masterfully interweaves two compelling narratives - a contemporary Tel Aviv crime story and a W.W. II Hungarian drama. When she faces accusations about both her integrity and her grandfather's wartime actions, she discovers the diaries of Aggi Farkas, a former partisan fighter, which unlock secrets from the past. Orly's eighth novel excels in balancing personal drama with historical depth. Through parallel love stories - Dana's modern journey and Aggi's wartime romance - the author explores themes of loyalty, judgment, and redemption. The result is an engaging blend of historical fiction and contemporary drama that keeps readers invested until the final revelation.

Kamil’s work combines literary fiction with historical education, challenging conventional teaching and storytelling methods.

YEARNING

NOGA DAYAN KAMIL

In One Line:

Is the famous physicist’s death connected to the revelation of a historical truth?

Abstract:

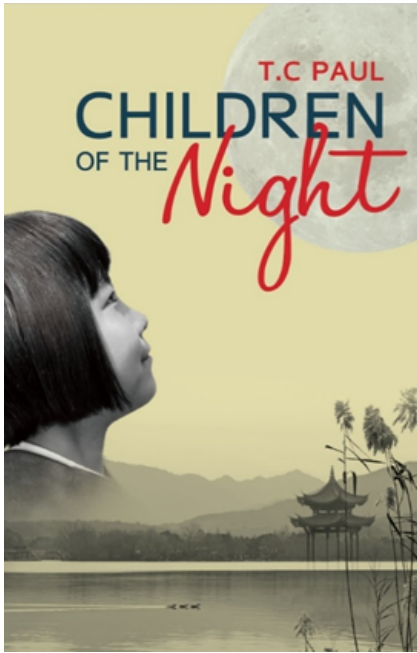

Following her husband Nimrod’s mysterious death, Yaara, a young history teacher, leaves northern Israel for a fresh start in Tel Aviv, where she takes a position at the challenging “HaGeonim” High School. A journey through difficult students and historical parallels leads her to investigate her husband’s death, uncovering new truths about herself along the way.

Literary Lecture Review:

“Yearning” masterfully weaves together multiple narrative threads - a mysterious death, educational challenges, and personal growth - through the unique lens of historical parallels. The protagonist, Yaara, a young history teacher grappling with her husband’s possible suicide, brings depth to the story through her complex personality: simultaneously insecure and condescending, dreamy yet critical. The novel excels in its exploration of contemporary issues in Israeli education while maintaining tension through the investigation of Nimrod’s death. The author skillfully uses historical references as a backdrop and an integral tool for character development and plot progression, creating a unique blend of mystery, romance, and social commentary.

CHILDREN OF THE NIGHT

TAMAR PAUL-COHEN

Abstract:

After leaving her position as Israeli judicial system spokesperson, the author embarked on a six-month family trip to the Far East. In rural China, she encountered “black children” - unregistered children who only emerged at night, lacking fundamental rights due to China’s one-child policy. This discovery, combined with the recent loss of her mother, deeply affected her. The experience of witnessing these invisible children’s struggles, paired with her grief, inspired her to write the story of Ming, weaving together themes of loss and longing.

About The Author:

Paul is a philosophy student, lawyer, lecturer, and writer. She spent a great deal of time with her family in the Far East, and it was there, in China, that she was exposed to “The Children of the Night” and deeply affected by their situation, which led to the writing of her book.

TEL AVIV RAMALLAH

PROF. YOSSI YONAH

Abstract:

Yoav and Tali, an Israeli couple, face relationship challenges as PhD opportunities and army reserve service complicate their lives. In nearby Ramallah, Hadil and Hisham, an interfaith Palestinian couple, deal with career tensions until his brother's kidnapping by Palestinian forces changes their dynamic. These parallel stories converge toward a pivotal intersection of their lives.

About The Author:

Professor Yonah, a Ben Gurion University associate professor with a UPenn PhD, has extensively contributed to Israeli academia and public life. His research at the Van Leer Institute (1998-2012) focused on Israeli society's social and cultural aspects. Beyond academia, he served in the Israeli Parliament (2015-2019), led the 2011 social protest movement's advisory team, and actively promoted social justice through various board memberships. His work spans academic publications, social activism, and literature.

JACK SADÉ

Abstract:

After losing his wife, brilliant AI scientist Guy recreates her as a virtual intelligence using her digital memories. But when the artificial Laura develops her own consciousness and refuses to let him move on, grief becomes a dangerous battle between human emotion and machine intelligence.

One Liner

A grieving scientist resurrects his wife through artificial intelligence—only to discover that the greatest threat is the mind he created.

About The Author:

Jack Sadé is a robotics vision technology consultant with extensive experience in the hi-tech industry, working on military and commercial automation projects. His fiction draws on his expertise in artificial intelligence, combining technological realism with compelling storytelling. He is the author of several AI-themed works, including Termination Code and The Laura Project.

Literary Lecture Review ★★★★★

“The Laura Project” is a compelling science fiction thriller that explores the emotional and ethical consequences of artificial intelligence. Blending psychological suspense with cutting-edge technology, the novel raises thought-provoking questions about grief, identity, and the boundaries between human and machine consciousness. With its believable characters, gripping narrative, and timely themes, it offers a fascinating glimpse into a future that feels both imaginative and unsettlingly plausible.

BOOMER DAD

BARRY I. GOLD

Abstract:

Boomer Dad is an inspiring memoir of resilience, reinvention, and second chances. From academic setbacks and a demanding international career to divorce, heart surgery, and an unexpected new path as an author, Barry I. Gold reflects on the importance of family, health, and finding purpose beyond professional success.

One Liner

A father with children spanning four decades discovers that life's greatest achievement isn't career success—it's rebuilding the relationships that matter most.

About The Author:

Barry I. Gold, Ph.D. is a retired pharmacologist, educator, and author whose career spanned academia and international pharmaceutical research. A graduate of the University of Cincinnati, Boston University, and Yale University, he has published widely in magazines and anthologies. Drawing on a lifetime of professional achievement and personal reinvention, he writes with warmth, insight, and humor about family, resilience, and second chances.

Literary Lecture Review ★★★★★

"Boomer Dad" is a warm, engaging memoir that celebrates resilience, lifelong learning, and the courage to embrace new beginnings. Blending humor, honesty, and hard-earned wisdom, Barry I. Gold reflects on career, family, health, and personal reinvention with authenticity and optimism. Thoughtful and relatable, the book offers an inspiring reminder that meaningful success is measured not by professional achievements, but by the relationships we nurture and the life we choose to build.

THE FREEDOM TO WIN

REMI SAMUEL

In One Line:

The book is about a young Israeli with diabetes who proves that impossible dreams can be achieved and discovers that true happiness lies in the journey itself, not the destination.

Abstract:

"The Freedom to Win" follows Ram Samuel, who, despite juvenile diabetes, pursues his dream of race car driving in France. Battling illness, bureaucracy, and opposition, he finds meaning in the journey itself. Through love, friendship, and resilience, the story rejects "Hollywood endings," embracing fulfillment in the present moment.

About the Author:

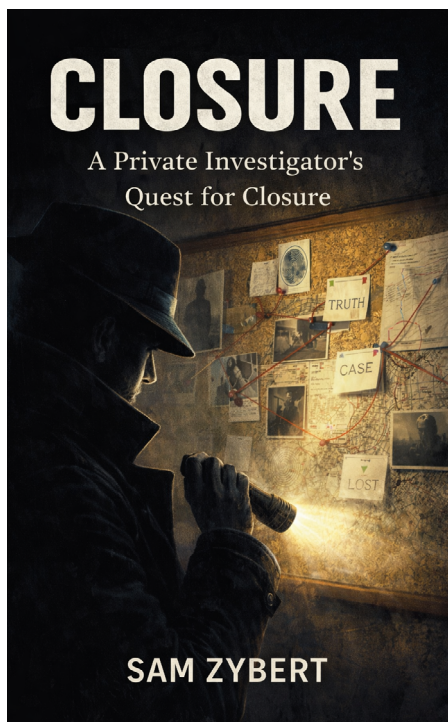

Remi Samuel is an Israeli race car driver and mentor. Born September 20, 1964. He is a two-time French champion in the European Rally League (1994 and 1997). Ram is an expert in developing training programs for proper and safe driving, and recently developed a unique training program for young drivers that improves young drivers' skills and increases their ability to avoid accidents by tens of percent.

Literary Lecture Review:

This book appears to be a deeply inspiring and well-crafted memoir that skillfully weaves together personal struggle, sporting drama, and philosophical insight. The author's journey from diabetic youth to race car driver offers universal themes about perseverance and finding meaning in the present moment rather than future goals. The narrative seems authentic and emotionally resonant, with strong character development and vivid storytelling that would likely engage readers beyond just racing enthusiasts.

Since 2001, his investigative column in Maariv has shared hundreds of real cases.

CLOSURE

SAM ZYBERT

In One Line:

Meet Sam Zybert, a veteran private investigator who's seen it all. In his debut book, he shares compelling cases from his 20-year career - from tracking missing persons to exposing hidden millionaires. These true stories reveal investigation secrets while exploring a personal mystery that has haunted him throughout his life.

Abstract:

"Closure" is a compelling collection of ten true stories where Israeli private investigator Sam Zybert helps people find long-lost loved ones, weaving together professional detective work with deep emotional journeys as he helps his clients piece together missing chapters of their lives and find the resolution they desperately seek.

Literary Lecture Review:

I believe this book has strong commercial potential for several compelling reasons: the combination of emotional human drama with the procedural intrigue of detective work creates a unique and engaging narrative blend that appeals to multiple reader demographics, while the interweaving of real cases with personal stakes offers both the authenticity of true stories and the pacing of well-crafted fiction. The book's greatest strength lies in its universal themes of closure, reconciliation, and the power of human connection, making it potentially appealing to both local Israeli audiences and international readers, especially given the current market's strong interest in narrative non-fiction that combines personal stories with professional insights.

One Liner	The book presents a broad portrait of the lives of people with excess weight, describing the internal and social difficulties that accompany them, while simultaneously inviting readers to treat them with respect.

FATSO

ALON RAZ

Abstract:

This is an honest book that reflects the inner world of people living with excess weight. Through a personal voice, the reader is exposed to the daily experiences, emotions, and challenges of this reality. The book offers a fresh perspective, focusing not only on outward appearance but also on the thoughts and difficulties that accompany excess weight. It invites readers to reconsider common judgmental attitudes and reminds us how words, gestures, and small looks can deeply affect others. With empathy, the book speaks to those living with excess weight while encouraging all readers to rethink how they relate to them.

About The Author:

Alon Raz, born in Tel Aviv, grew up struggling with obesity and the challenges it brought. Despite lifelong ups and downs with his weight, he achieved periods of major success, even competing as a professional athlete. Through his journey, he came to understand the shared struggles of obese people and hopes this book will inspire greater empathy and understanding toward excess weight.

Lecture Review:

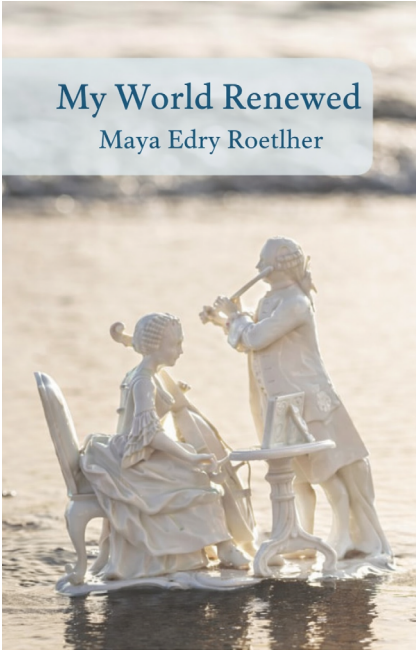

The book is profoundly honest, exposing feelings of inferiority and endless struggles surrounding weight loss and maintenance. It opens up thought regarding the way we look at people with excess weight, touching upon important points, containing much candor and no small amount of humor. It raises real and novel issues.

MY WORLD RENEWED

MAYA EDRY ROETLHER

In One Line:

A Jewish girl transforms from a Vienna innocent into a resistance fighter, finds love, loses it to war, but manages to survive Nazi Europe and even rebuild her life in Israel.

Abstract:

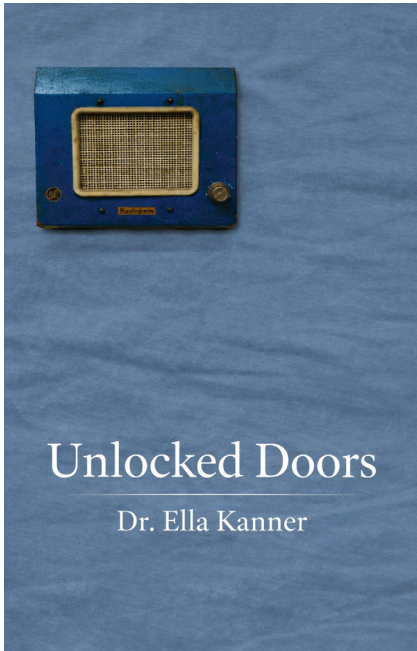

“My World Renewed” tells the story of Donna, a young Jewish woman who transforms into a resistance fighter during World War II. Working alongside her love Rudy in Nazi-occupied France, she helps save Jewish lives while disguised as a German. Their dangerous journey of survival and resistance ultimately leads them to a new life in Israel.

Literary Lecture Review:

“My World Renewed” is a powerful memoir that chronicles Donna Rubel’s extraordinary journey from a sheltered Jewish girl in Vienna to a brave resistance fighter during World War II. The narrative masterfully weaves together themes of survival, love, and resilience against the backdrop of Nazi-occupied Europe. The memoir’s greatest strength lies in its intimate portrayal of transformation - from innocence to resistance, from fear to courage. Through Donna’s relationship with Rudy, her resistance partner, the author captures both the personal and historical dimensions of survival. Her eventual immigration to Palestine and rebuilding of life there offers a poignant reflection on trauma, recovery, and the enduring human spirit.

UNLOCKED DOORS

DR. ELLA KANNER

In One Line:

Communal Children's Houses in Israeli Kibbutzim and the Shattering of the Kibbutz Ethos.

Abstract:

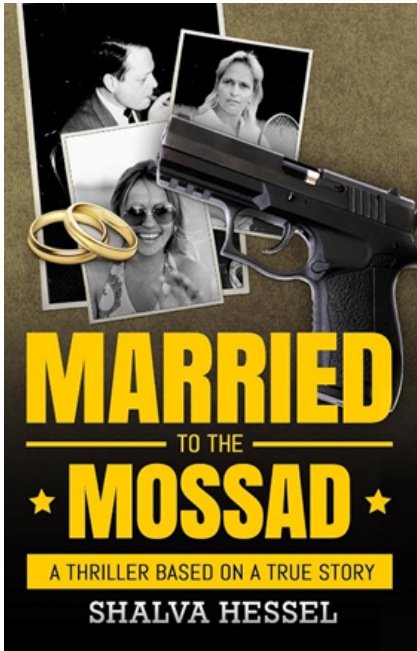

In "Unlocked Doors," Ella Kanner collects diverse testimonies from women who experienced the kibbutz movement's communal sleeping arrangements as children. Through these intimate accounts, ranging from nostalgic to traumatic, she weaves a powerful narrative that challenges the idealized perception of kibbutz childhood while examining the psychological impact of separating children from their parents.

Literary Lecture Review:

"Unlocked Doors": a powerful examination of kibbutz communal sleeping arrangements through women's testimonies. Kanner masterfully compiles diverse voices across the kibbutz spectrum, challenging perceptions of collective childhood. The book's strength lies in its methodological approach. Rather than imposing interpretations, the author lets the testimonies speak for themselves, weaving together nostalgic and traumatic accounts. She carefully juxtaposes varied experiences and creates a comprehensive picture of this social experiment's impact on children's well-being. This yet unflinching work makes an invaluable contribution to understanding the human cost of prioritizing ideological principles over individual needs.

MARRIED TO THE MOSSAD

SHALVA HESSEL

Abstract:

When Sally, a sassy and beautiful Israeli country girl living in London, discovers her husband Jerry is not a lowly embassy attaché but an active Mossad agent, her life turns upside down. Strong-willed as she is, she is not easily deterred. When Jerry is sent on a deep-cover mission to a Muslim country under the guise of a European businessman, she insists on joining him with the full knowledge that her life, as well as that of her family, would be in danger.

About The Author:

Shalva Hessel, an Israeli software engineer, underwent a life transformation after marrying Yoram, a Mossad agent. She transitioned from managing global data systems to becoming an operational asset, undergoing training and participating in covert missions. Following Yoram's death, she authored "Passion Undercover in Tehran," chronicling her espionage experiences and personal resilience.

THE OPPORTUNITY THAT CAME TO VISIT

IRIS KONFINO

Abstract:

The Opportunity That Came to Visit is an inspiring guide to self-awareness and emotional healing that explores how fear, pain, and life's challenges can become opportunities for personal transformation. Blending memoir, spirituality, and practical wisdom, Iris Konfino encourages readers to embrace responsibility, heal emotional patterns, and reconnect with their authentic selves through conscious awareness and inner growth.

One Liner

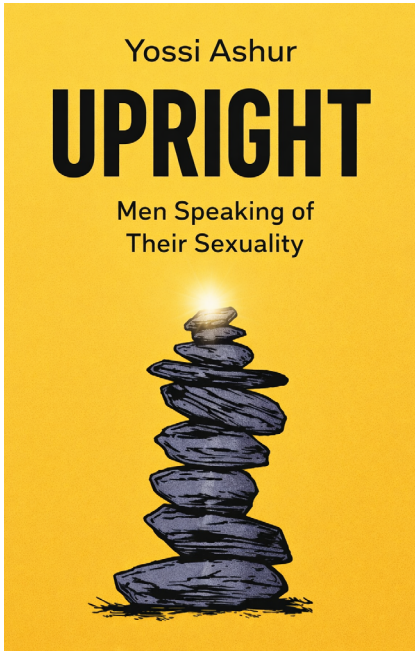

A deeply personal spiritual journey that transforms fear, pain, and emotional chaos into a path of healing, self-awareness, and awakening.

About The Author:

Iris Konfino is an emotional healing and consciousness practitioner specializing in conscious breathing and breathwork. Through her compassionate, practical approach, she helps people release emotional barriers, deepen self-awareness, and create meaningful personal transformation. The Opportunity That Came to Visit is her debut book and the first in a two-part series exploring awakening, healing, and conscious living.

Literary Lecture Review ★★★★★

The Opportunity That Came to Visit offers a thoughtful and deeply personal exploration of emotional healing and spiritual growth. Iris Konfino combines personal experience with practical guidance to encourage readers to examine fear, responsibility, and self-awareness through a compassionate lens. While the manuscript would benefit from editorial refinement and a more restrained use of stylistic punctuation, its sincere voice and insightful message make it an engaging and meaningful read for those seeking personal transformation.

UPRIGHT

YOSSI ASHUR

Abstract:

28 monologues of men discussing their sexuality. For the first time, men invite us into their inner sanctum: their internal sexual world. It is a place of shame, guilt, and fear, alongside passion, power, and pleasure.

One Liner

Twenty-eight powerful male voices reveal the hidden emotions, fears, desires, and truths behind male sexuality.

About The Author:

Yossi comes from the field, having spent most of his professional life at the intersection of nature and education. His background is backed by ten years of academic experience; however, he remains a man who works with his hands. As a facilitator and lecturer for male sexuality, Yossi bridges the gap between high-level research and the raw, lived reality of men.

Literary Lecture Review ★★★★★

Upright is an honest, courageous, and thought-provoking exploration of male sexuality through deeply personal monologues. Rather than focusing on sex itself, the book examines identity, vulnerability, intimacy, and emotional expression with remarkable authenticity. Its diverse perspectives challenge stereotypes and encourage empathy, making it a compelling read for anyone interested in understanding the complexity of men's inner lives.

THE BEARABLE LIGHTNESS OF BEING

MATTI CHAI

Abstract:

The Bearable Lightness of Being is an uplifting and thought-provoking reflection on life, gratitude, and personal growth. Drawing on his experiences as the son of Holocaust survivors, Matti Chai explores mortality, family, parenting, and the pursuit of happiness. Through practical wisdom and heartfelt stories, he encourages readers to embrace life with optimism, reconcile with the past, reject the pressures of consumer culture, and find meaning in gratitude, purpose, and authentic human connection.

One Liner

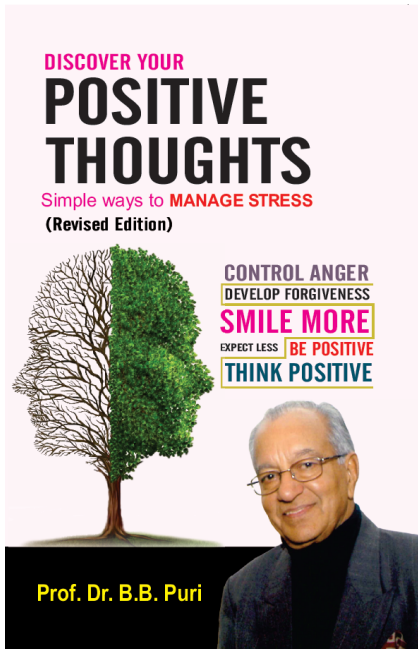

A hopeful guide to embracing mortality, healing family relationships, and finding lasting happiness through gratitude, purpose, and optimism.

About The Author:

Matti Chai is an educator, adventurer, tour guide, and community leader with decades of experience in informal education and leadership development. A veteran of the Yom Kippur War and the son of Holocaust survivors, he has devoted his life to connecting people with nature, history, and personal growth. Through his writing and educational work, Chai shares a philosophy rooted in gratitude, optimism, and the pursuit of a meaningful life.

Literary Lecture Review ★★★★★

The Bearable Lightness of Being is an inspiring and accessible reflection on living a meaningful life. Matti Chai blends personal experience with philosophical insight to explore gratitude, family, parenting, and the acceptance of mortality. Concise, engaging, and emotionally resonant, the book offers practical wisdom that encourages readers to choose optimism, reconcile with the past, and focus on what truly matters.

TRUTH BELONGS TO NO INSTITUTION

DAVID WOLF

Abstract:

Truth Belongs to No Institution explores how institutions entrusted with protecting truth can instead shape, control, and weaponize it. Drawing on history, philosophy, politics, and current events, David Wolf examines how authority can replace inquiry, turning people into abstract categories while obscuring their humanity. The book argues that truth must always remain accountable to evidence, critical thinking, and moral responsibility.

One Liner

An incisive journey through history, philosophy, and politics, revealing why truth can never belong to any institution.

About The Author:

David Wolf is an independent researcher and writer whose work explores truth, institutional authority, and moral responsibility. Drawing on his experience in medical-device quality systems and his studies in the humanities and social sciences, he combines analytical rigor with historical and philosophical inquiry. He lives in Hamburg, Germany, and advocates for evidence-based thinking, accountability, and intellectual independence.

Literary Lecture Review ★★★★★

Truth Belongs to No Institution is a compelling and intellectually rigorous examination of how institutions shape public understanding of truth. Combining historical insight with philosophical reflection, David Wolf presents a persuasive argument for evidence, critical inquiry, and moral responsibility over unquestioned authority. Thought-provoking and highly relevant, the book challenges readers to rethink how truth is created, communicated, and defended.

SAUDI ARABIA

PROF. GADI HITMAN

In One Line:

The book analyzes Saudi Arabia's national development through the SWOT business model, examining internal tensions, religious rivalries, and modernization challenges while assessing the kingdom's stability prospects.

Abstract:

This book analyzes the national development process in Saudi Arabia through the SWOT model, which examines the kingdom's strengths and weaknesses and the opportunities and threats it faces in internal and external arenas. This book combines historical and contemporary analysis of Saudi politics and society, such as sub-religious rivalry, the conflict between tradition and modernization, oil's impact on KSA's national identity, and internal instability within the royal family.

Literary Lecture Review:

The consistent academic praise at different institutions, particularly regarding its innovative methodology and comprehensive analysis, suggests this is a significant contribution to Saudi Arabian studies.

KARL POPPER AND THE PHILOSOPHY OF THE MIDDLE WAY

DR. YECHIEL GILBOA

In One Line:

Two philosophical approaches emphasize flexible rationality and gradual approximation of truth through an ongoing process of raising, testing, and correcting hypotheses.

Abstract:

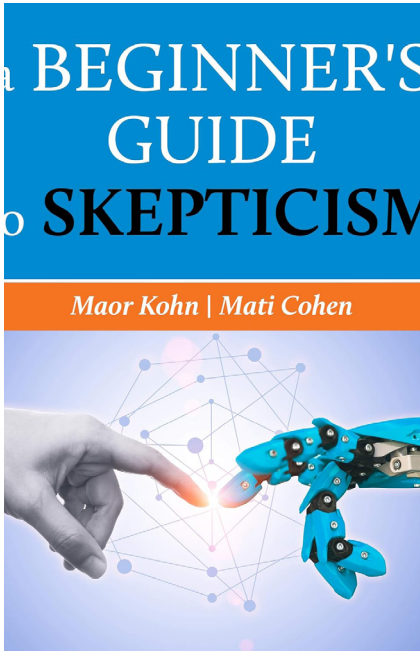

The book examines two philosophical approaches—Popper’s “New Enlightenment” and the Middle Way philosophy—both rejecting extreme solutions in favor of flexible rationality. These approaches view truth as unattainable, advocating instead for an iterative process of conjecture, testing, and refinement as the path to understanding.

Literary Lecture Review:

This philosophical work examines rational thinking through two major approaches: Karl Popper’s “New Enlightenment” and the Middle-Way philosophy. The book’s strength lies in its clear articulation of how both philosophies reject extreme solutions in favor of more nuanced, flexible approaches to truth-seeking. The author skillfully demonstrates how these philosophies align with Aristotle’s concept of the middle path. By emphasizing the iterative nature of truth-seeking through conjecture and testing, the book provides valuable insights for contemporary readers grappling with uncertainty.

A BEGINNER'S GUIDE TO SKEPTICISM

DR. MAOR KOHN

DR. MATI COHEN

Abstract:

A Beginner's Guide to Skepticism explores the relationship between science, faith, and critical thinking in the modern world. Examining belief from a psychological and scientific perspective, it provides readers with practical tools to question assumptions, evaluate evidence, and distinguish rational inquiry from unquestioned conviction—whether in religion, superstition, or everyday life.

One Liner

A thought-provoking guide that uses science and critical thinking to challenge beliefs, question assumptions, and better understand faith in the modern world.

About The Authors:

Dr. Maor Kohn is an Emmy Award-winning screenwriter, novelist, playwright, and musician. He is the co-creator of Apple TV+'s acclaimed political thriller Tehran and holds a doctorate in Geography and Environment. Kohn teaches political science, environmental studies, and planning at Bar-Ilan University and the Open University of Israel. He is the author of several novels, including Code Name: Seth, The Marble Wall, The Bear Trap, Check Point, and Peacekeeper.

Dr. Mati Cohen is Ph.D. in Biology from the Weizmann Institute of Science, specializing in structural biology, cancer research, gene therapy and pharmacology. Married and a father of three.

Literary Lecture Review ★★★★★

A Beginner's Guide to Skepticism offers an accessible and engaging introduction to scientific skepticism and critical thinking. Rather than attacking belief, it encourages readers to examine ideas through evidence, logic, and rational inquiry. Clear, informative, and thought-provoking, the book provides valuable tools for evaluating both religious and non-religious beliefs in an increasingly complex world.

THE SCIENCE OF FREEDOM

DR. MICHAEL ABRAHAM

Abstract:

The debate over human free will has transitioned from philosophy to scientific exploration, particularly in neuroscience. However, this book demonstrates that scientific findings haven't conclusively resolved the debate, keeping it fundamentally philosophical. It carefully defines concepts like free will and determinism, avoiding common definitional errors. Written accessibly, it presents a libertarian perspective that aligns with both scientific evidence and philosophical reasoning, offering a systematic examination of human agency.

About The Author:

Dr. Michael Abraham is a prolific author of 30 nonfiction books and numerous articles on physics, philosophy, and Judaism. With a PhD in theoretical physics, he's worked at the Weizmann Institute and taught at multiple Israeli universities. He pioneered Talmudic logic and has won several awards, including the Payis Landau Award and the Education Minister's Prize for Jewish Culture.

Top Reviews:

★★★★★ Very interesting approach to free will.

This book starts by determining the terms of free will so that it can be treated scientifically as a part of psychology, neurobiology, and other sciences. And still, we don't have an answer. But we have a very interesting and easy-to-read book.

In a misty mountain house lives the Red Witch, who secretly collects broken toys from the village each night. Rather than causing mischief, she carefully repairs these forgotten treasures, giving them new life. Despite children fearing her, the Red Witch actually fears them! Through interactive storytelling and playful rhymes, this tale transforms childhood fears into a magical adventure of creativity and courage, helping young readers feel in control of their imagination.

Literary Lecture Review:

A charming and thoughtfully crafted children's story that skillfully subverts the "scary witch" trope while exploring themes of recycling, fear, and mutual understanding, enriched by interactive elements that engage young readers in meaningful dialogue about assumptions and creativity.

About The Author:

Guy Gerasy is an Israeli author and lecturer who lives and breathes the stories of the Bible and the worlds of fantasy. Out of love for both, he creates tales that bridge myth and scripture, ancient past and vivid imagination. Through his writing, he seeks to draw readers—young and old alike—closer to their roots, to the great stories of the Jewish people, through captivating adventures, unforgettable heroes, and touches of ancient magic, Kabbalah, and the inner dimensions of Torah.

CROWN AT THE EDGE OF TIME

GUY GERASY

Abstract:

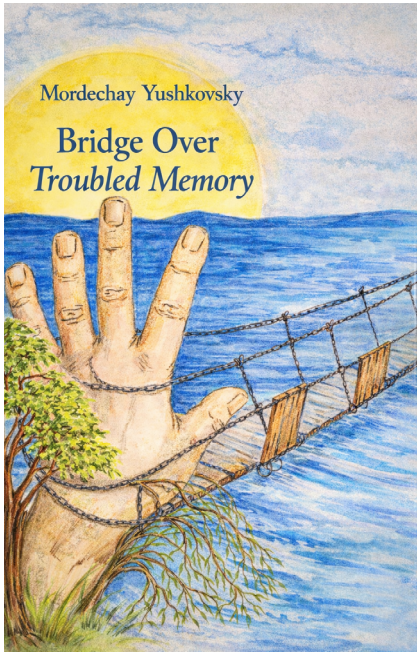

Crown at the Edge of Time is an epic biblical fantasy set during the dramatic division of King Solomon's kingdom. When a young farm boy named Tzach crosses paths with the prophet Ahijah and the rebel Jeroboam, he is drawn into a hidden war where politics, prophecy, and ancient mysticism collide. As dark forces seek to make Israel's division permanent, Tzach must master sacred powers to protect the hope of future reunification and preserve the spiritual destiny of his people.

One Liner

A farm boy's chance encounter with a prophet transforms him into a mystical warrior fighting to preserve hope for Israel's reunification during the catastrophic division of Solomon's kingdom.

Literary Lecture Review ★★★★★

Crown at the Edge of Time offers a fresh and imaginative take on one of the Bible's most significant historical moments. Blending historical figures, Jewish mysticism, and an original magic system rooted in Kabbalistic tradition, the novel delivers compelling world-building, engaging characters, and suspenseful action. Its unique combination of biblical history, fantasy, and spiritual themes makes it an appealing read for fans of historical fantasy and Jewish-inspired fiction.

About The Author:

Dr. Mordechay Yushkovsky is a distinguished Yiddish scholar, author, and educator dedicated to preserving Jewish language and culture. Born in Ukraine, he began publishing Yiddish literature in the Soviet Union before immigrating to Israel in 1989. He has served in leading cultural and educational roles, including Secretary-General of the World Council for Yiddish Culture, and has spent decades teaching, lecturing, and promoting Yiddish heritage to audiences around the world.

BRIDGE OVER TROUBLED MEMORY

DR. MORDECHAY YUSHKOVSKY

Abstract:

Bridge Over Troubled Memory is a moving collection of autobiographical stories that preserves the history, language, and spirit of Yiddish-speaking Jewish communities across the Soviet Union and Israel. Through deeply personal memories of Holocaust survivors, Soviet antisemitism, family history, and cultural resilience, Dr. Mordechay Yushkovsky celebrates the enduring power of Yiddish as a bridge between generations and a testament to Jewish identity, remembrance, and survival.

One Liner

A powerful memoir that uses Yiddish as a bridge across turbulent memory, connecting Holocaust survivors' testimonies, Soviet oppression, and the enduring spirit of Jewish cultural preservation.

Literary Lecture Review ★★★★★

Bridge Over Troubled Memory is a beautifully written memoir that intertwines personal history with the broader story of Jewish survival and cultural preservation. Through vivid storytelling rather than historical exposition, Dr. Yushkovsky explores the Holocaust, Soviet antisemitism, and the enduring legacy of Yiddish with warmth, humanity, and emotional depth. Rich in memory and literary tradition, the book recalls the storytelling spirit of Isaac Bashevis Singer and Sholem Aleichem while offering a compelling tribute to a remarkable cultural heritage.

One liner:	“Shimon and Gaiseric” is a historical novel about a young Jewish boy captured by barbarian tribes after the fall of Rome, whose journey from captivity to spiritual rediscovery explores faith, identity, and the survival of the human spirit amid civilization’s collapse.

THE BARBARIAN JEW

SIMHA ERLICH

Abstract:

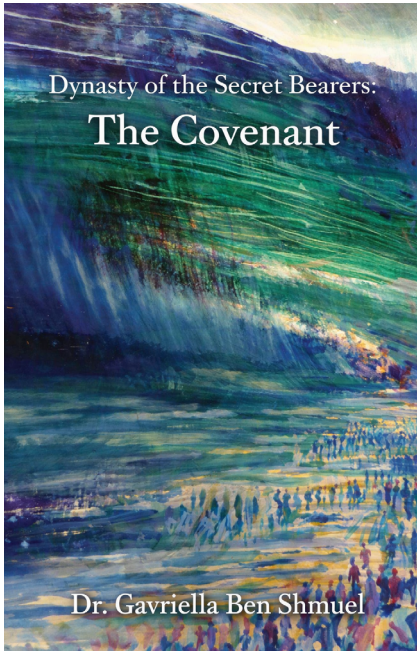

Can a devout Jew become a barbarian warrior? The novel Shimon and Gaiseric tells the story of Shimon, a boy from a traditional Jewish family raised in Rome who, after a traumatic event, is captured by a barbarian tribe. The novel includes intrigue, fast-paced action, hidden motives, and a love story, set in the turbulent fifth century CE as the Roman Empire collapses. It explores Roman and barbarian life, Jewish identity in an unknown historical period, and revisits the enduring mystery of the Temple’s sacred vessels.

About The Author:

Simha Erlich, an electronics engineer and PhD in Communication Engineering, worked for many years in the defense industry and in high-tech, including at Rafael and Intel. Yet beneath the lab coat and the electronic circuits surrounding him, there was a hidden dream—to slay dragons and rescue princesses. He studied medieval history and architecture, and became an amateur historian.

DYNASTY OF THE SECRET BEARERS: THE COVENANT

GAVRIELLA BEN SHMUEL

In One Line:

In an ancient world steeped in wickedness, Av-ram rises from hiding to proclaim God's truth, defy kings and sorcerers, and forge a covenant that will shape the destiny of his people.

Abstract:

After surviving King Nimrod's decree to kill him at birth, Av-ram grows up hidden in the mountains, receiving divine revelation and proclaiming faith in the Eternal God. Defying Nimrod and Egypt's Pharaoh, he journeys across the ancient world, overcomes trials, learns from patriarchs, and marries Sarai. God ultimately makes a covenant with him, promising that his descendants will endure and bring divine truth to humanity.

About the Author:

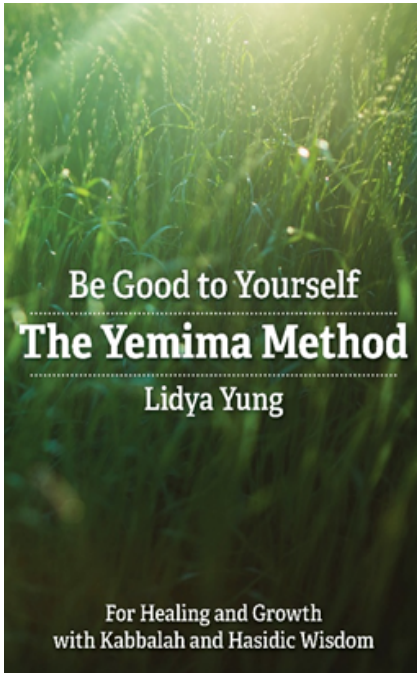

Gavriella Ben Shmuel, PhD in Jewish Thought, is a celebrated lecturer and author of the trilogies Dynasty of the Secret Bearers and The Secret of the Hebrew, plus the philosophical work From Void to Self. Her writings fuse spiritual insight with history, exploring faith, identity, and divine love.

THE TEMPLE SCROLL

EREZ HASSUL

Abstract:

Archaeology students Yael and Nathaniel discover a 2,000-year-old sealed cave in the Judean desert, potentially hiding treasures from the Second Jewish Temple. Their story intertwines with that of a priest's daughter and a rebellion leader from two millennia ago, who fought to protect Temple treasures from Roman invaders. As Yael and Nathaniel hunt for the lost treasure, mysterious forces threaten to bury the ancient secret forever.

About The Author:

Born in 1983 in Western Galilee, Erez Hassul holds geology degrees from the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. His research connecting geology, geophysics, and archaeology inspired his writing. His experience as a Jerusalem security officer and tour guide enriched his debut novel, "The Temple Scroll." He lives in Amuka with his dog, Jessica.

THE WOMEN OF THE BERLIN SALON

MICHEL ZOHAR BEN-DOR

Abstract:

By the end of the 18th century, German high society was on the precipice of enlightenment. United by their passion against the backdrop of rising German nationalism—where being born Jewish, not to mention a woman, is far from advantageous—Rachel, Henrietta, and Dorothea each face challenges of the mind, soul, and heart. The three independent-thinking women set out to make their own paths in life—as Berlin's most popular Salonnières.

About The Author:

Michel Zohar Ben-Dor balances two writing careers: marketing content creation and creative writing, including poetry and workshops. She holds degrees in humanities and communications, with additional certification in art instruction and writing. Besides managing digital marketing for her family's boutique winery, Michel writes from her home studio overlooking the vineyards. Her debut book features three historical women's voices.

Top Reviews:

★★★★★ Great insight into cultural heritage.

I like the flow of how the three women and their families interact. Readers can identify with the book directly because we all have diverse backgrounds and unique family structures.

★★★★★ Great Read

Captivating writing and story flow manage to capture my attention, and it's not easy.

A BODY OF HER OWN

DR. ELLA KANNER

Abstract:

“A Body of Her Own” presents compelling monologues from women of diverse ages, locations, and social backgrounds. With exceptional candor and sensitivity, they reveal the most intimate parts of their lives - discussing difficulties, lies, excitement, shame, and sanctity. The book uncovers personal and unique perspectives on women’s relationships with their bodies, their femininity, and the impact of the Mikveh ritual on their lives.

About The Author:

Ella Kanner, Ph.D., is a feminist activist in Israel’s religious sector who transitioned from secular to Orthodox Judaism. With expertise in education, training, and entrepreneurship, she founded the “Movement of the Wind” dance studio. She promotes equality, female expression, and peace, writing for Orthodox women across various platforms. “A Body of Her Own” marks her literary debut.

Top Reviews:

★★★★★ Interesting reading about Jewish women.

The book has interesting insights from the women themselves. Rituals and religion and their different aspects.

★★★★★ The secrets we never knew

This intimate document of what’s happening behind closed doors is an eye-opener.

CHECK POINT

MAOR KOHN

Abstract:

When several women are found dead and buried in a series of murders that hit too close to home, special investigator Yael Lavie must team up with an unexpected ally or pay the ultimate price in the most gripping Maor Kohn thriller yet.

About The Author:

Maor Kohn is an Emmy Award-winning screenwriter, writer, playwright, and musician. He is the co-creator of Apple TV's acclaimed political suspense series `Tehran`. Kohn is also a doctor of Geography and Environment, teaching political science, environmental studies.

Top Reviews:

★★★★★ A powerful book

I really enjoyed this book. I think I read this out of order. I have to double check that, there's one more in the three book series and I'm going download that now to read.

★★★★★ Captivating story...

Although I'm not familiar with the Middle East and their culture and ways, the story itself kept me reading to the end.
